Pebbles on the Shore

It's funny isn't it, how, sometimes, memories of things long forgotten, suddenly invade one's thoughts! Or, at least, that's how it is for me.

The other day, for example, whilst walking the dog, I saw some horses in a field and, for some reason, started thinking about horses and carts which, in turn, reminded me of my early childhood in Hull.

Once a week, a man would come slowly down the street with a horse and cart yelling 'Ra-a bo' or something similar, which made no sense at all; but which, I guess, could be loosely translated as 'Rag and Bones'! People would then bring out old clothes and other discarded household items and he would pay for them and put them on his cart - I'm not quite sure what happened about the bones, I always found that a bit worrying!

As I thought about this, what really struck me was that the Rag and Bone man used to come with a horse and cart. And it occurred to me that it's ages since I've actually seen a horse and cart. They seem to have gone right out of fashion - except, of course, for the ones you see giving tourists rides in cities around the world - but that's hardly the real thing!

Horses and carts then, are, a thing of the past - as are fountain pens, small pox and the right to tell politically incorrect, but funny and affectionate, jokes about our friends south of the border or across the Irish Sea! In fact, when you think about it, the level of scientific and technological advances made over the last hundred or so years is really quite amazing. I'm sitting at my desk now surrounded by electronic wizardry - computers, scanners, printers, photocopiers, mobile phones - all things that have come into mainstream usage only over the last 20 years or so.

It's hard to imagine now how we ever survived without a car or a microwave or a television or a DVD player. And how on earth did people survive without dishwashers and mobile phones?

What a horrific thought! Yes, there's no doubt about it, we're well and truly into the age of technology and there's no looking back. The world in which we live has changed dramatically, even over the last 5 years - and it looks set to continue changing at an ever increasing rate.

For some, like me, this is very exciting. I get bored if things remain the same for too long! I find that I'm always questioning myself about the things that I do and the way that I do them - I'm always trying to find a newer way, or a better way - even if sometimes I have to revert to the old tried and tested ways in the end and admit defeat!

For others, the speed of change is alarming and the loss of the old ways of thinking and doing things is often lamented. Change can make us all feel vulnerable - but it is, nevertheless, a fact of life.

Change is also inevitable in the Church. We've probably all heard people complain about 'change for changes' sake' - though sometimes it seems as though the opposite is true and that there are those determined to resist change simply for the sake of resisting change's sake!

Research has shown that the kind of people who tend to become members of churches are also the kind of people who find change and innovation most difficult and threatening - and the result of that is that churches are often rather slow to change and to adapt to new situations and circumstances

However, it is important that we constantly and continually assess and evaluate what we do and how we do it. At the moment, the Mission and Development Group has formally taken on this task - but it's important that we all take this work seriously - because the danger is that if we don't, then we lose touch with those whom we're trying to serve and minister to. And once that happens, it's only a matter of time until we die.

So, as they say in Yorkshire, 'Think on!'

THE MISSION TO SEAFARERS

The monthly retiring collection on 28 June will be in aid of the Mission to Seafarers. The following is a message from Secretary General of the Mission to Seafarers.

Dear Friends,

As an island nation, we who live in the United Kingdom depend on seafarers for over 95 per cent of our daily goods and services. I am writing to you today to ask if you and your parish will remember to worlds 1.2 million seafarers in your service on 28 June.

The sea is our nation's lifeline. Much of our food, our fuel and nearly all the every day items we use will have been transported thousands of miles across seas and oceans to our local supermarket shelves by seafarers working on vast ships.

A seafarer's life is a hard and lonely existence – this makes the work of the Mission to Seafarers even more important and, in some cases, vital in replacing the loneliness and isolation a seafarer can face with Christian love and witness. On behalf of the Anglican Communion, the Mission to Seafarers reaches out with a message of love and hope to crews visiting our centres in 230 ports around the world.

If you wish for more detailed information of what we do visit our web-site at www.missiontoseafarers.org.

We appreciate your support and prayers in this important ministry.

With my thanks and good wishes.

The Revd. Canon Bill Christianson.

MU World Wide President Rosemary Kempself addresses MU members at the lunch at Gill's house

Thank you to everyone who attended the International Evening on the 22nd of May. We raised £330 which will go to the Overseas Fund. A good time was had by all and there was no leftovers.

On Monday 25th May, MU Members from Kircaldy, Burntisland, Inverkeithing and Holy Trinity met the World Wide President for a bring and share lunch at Gill's house. Rosemary Kempself (WWP) was accompanied by her husband John and Sheila and David Redwood. It was good to catch up with friends old and not so old. The Rector led Midday Prayers, then Rosemary spoke about the places she's visited since her appointment. She reminded us of the continued effort the MU makes to improve the lives of many people around the world. A special thank you to Jack and Gill for their hospitality for that day.

Our first June meeting is on 3rd at 1.45pm in the church hall. The second meeting is on Wednesday 17th at 7.30pm when the Rev. Ian Greenshiels will be the guest speaker. This meeting is open to all members of the congregation. The Strawberry Tea is being changed from Wednesday 1st July to the 8th of July. This will be at 1.45pm at Fiona Barcroft's House, 41 Menteith Drive, Dunfermline. This will be the last meeting before the summer break. Hope everyone has a nice break wherever you spend it.
